KEY QUOTES:

"For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh."— Ephesians 5:31

"The Christian worldview is intimately familiar with the experience of emptiness, with the despair and impotence that radical feminists—like all of us—seek to escape. We call this experience the human condition. Christians know the dark night of the soul, but we also know that self-glorifying rage will only plunge us deeper into the abyss."¹

"Feminists are becoming difficult to identify, not because they do not exist, but because their philosophy has been integrated into mainstream society so thoroughly. The philosophy is almost unidentifiable as feminist, for it is virtually indistinguishable from mainstream."²

"Feminism freed men, not women...feminism gave men all the financial and personal advantages over women. The truth is, a woman can't live the true feminist life unless she denies her child-bearing biology.

The reality of feminism is a lot of frenzied and overworked women dropping kids off at day-care centers.

Women should get educations so they can be brainy in the way they raise their children. Women and men are not equal, they are different. The economy might even improve if women came home, opening up jobs for unemployed men, who could then support a wife and children, the way it was, pre-feminism."³
